

Junior College Site Negotiations Continue

Selection Is 'Long Way' Off

PALM DESERT — Junior college district officials today denied reports that the college district's Board of Trustees has selected one of four acceptable sites as the location for the new College of the Desert.

Gail Brumwell, administrative assistant for the Coachella Valley Junior College District, said the board is still negotiating for all four sites recommended by the State Department of School House Planning.

BRUMWELL'S statements were made in answer to a report that the board would act on a site at its Thursday night meeting, he explained.

"We're a long way from final selection of any one site," Brumwell remarked. "We are still negotiating for all four."

College President Roy McCall last week reported that negotiations had collapsed on the attempted purchase of what the board regarded as the "prime location" for their future college—a 400-acre site at Indian Wells Cove.

DR. McCALL SAID the acreage, apparently the board's "favorite" of the four, is owned by oilmen Ray Ryan and Barney Hinkle. McCall said Ryan refused to sell the land at "any price," although negotiations were based on a price of $300,000 previously established by Hinkle.

But, McCall said, the board's site committee is "keeping the door open" for renewed negotiations in hopes that the owners may relent.

The second choice of the board, McCall reported, is a 240-acre parcel on Rio Del Sol Road, north of Avenue 40 and Rancho Mirage. Owned by hotelman Hank Gogerty, the acreage was formerly the location of Gogerty's ill-fated horse race track.

THE TWO REMAINING sites include 160 acres on Highway 111, between Indian Wells and Palm Desert, just south of the highway, and 120 acres on Monterey Street, a short distance north of Highway 111.

Meanwhile, the county yesterday entered the college land picture as Planning Director Tyler Sues reported to the County Planning Commission on the virtues and deficiencies of all four sites.

THE COMMISSION agreed with the board that the Indian Wells Cove location, nestled in an indentation of the Santa Rosa Mountains, and the Rio Del Sol Road sites were the prime choices. Sues rated the third site as being "too expensive" and reported that the fourth, on Monterey, has a flooding problem.

The Indian Wells Cove site "is by far the most beautiful" but has one drawback — limited accessibility — Sues said. The Rio Del Sol land, which has "excellent accessibility," is in a "very windy area," he added.

Ike Says 'No Crisis Yet' in Steel Strike, Rules Out Use of Taft-Hartley at Present

Fact-Finding Board Sought By McDonald

Union President Seeks New Parley With Management

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — A half-million United Steelworkers went on strike today, cutting the nation's steel production to a comparative trickle.

With negotiations for a new union-industry labor contract tightly hung up on the thorny issues of wages and "management's right to manage," the workers who produce 90 percent of the country's steel walked out.

USW PRESIDENT David J. McDonald called on the heads of the 12 major steel companies, whose decision set the pattern for the giant industry, to agree to submit the dispute to a three-man fact-finding board.

Industry sources here saw little chance of acceptance of the proposal and the most costly strike in the nation's history appeared in the making.

THE WALKOUT, the sixth by the big union since World War II, started officially at 12:01 a.m. (e.d.t.) when a two-week extension of the previous wage agreement expired. But by the deadline, the mills already were idle and the furnaces banked or emptied.

McDonald left New York City, scene of 10 weeks of fruitless negotiations with the industry, Tuesday night to appear before cheering workers at a strike rally of employees of the U. S. Steel Corporation's Fairless workers at Morrisville, Pa.

Reds Demanding 'All German' Pact

GENEVA (UPI) — Russia warned the West today that her loaded All-German Committee proposal is the price for a Berlin truce. The western powers accused Russia of threatening to torpedo the Big Four talks.

Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko told the western foreign ministers that the All-German Committee, on which East German Communists should have equal representation with the West Germans, is tied tightly with his Berlin truce proposal.

New County Dump Site Given Okeh

County Planners Recommend Site To Supervisors

Plans for a new county dump site, designed to serve the entire Palm Springs area, yesterday drew the unanimous recommendation of the County Planning Commission.

County Planning Director Tyler Sues said today that the commission endorsed an 80-acre site, bordered by Ramon Road and the Southern Pacific Railroad tracks, as an "almost immediate" county replacement for the present Palm Springs City dump.

FAVORABLE ACTION by the Board of Supervisors would presumably end condemnation proceedings on the county's proposed Date Palm Drive area dump site and may bring the resort area a new cut-and-fill dump "in the very near future," Sues reported.

The new site was offered to the county by the owners of land presently marked for condemnation as a county dump. This location, selected more than a year ago, is situated about a mile east of Date Palm and almost a mile south of Ramon Road.

The property owners were identified as Geraldine Cowgill "and several persons named King" by Sues today.

THEY OFFERED the new site as an alternate to the disputed property, the price of which — at $12,600 an acre — was far beyond the $888 an acre budgeted by the board for the 90-acre parcel.

Price of the new site was estimated at a "very conservative" $200 an acre. Sues said the new site, which, he said, is screened from view by railroad embankments, would be almost immediately available for dump operations.

"THE COUNTY could move very fast to put this site in operation," Sues reported. "The county has the money, so it's just a matter of acquiring the property."

Council Okehs New Well for Golf Course

City Council members last night enacted a special "urgency ordinance" that will allow the city to go ahead with the immediate installation of a new well on the new Palm Springs Golf Course.

Water from the well will nourish some 4,400 pounds of Bermuda grass seed now awaiting planting on the fairways and greens of the city's first municipal golf course.

A UNANIMOUS council vote approved a $16,000 well, to be installed by James Wright, of Indio. The well, the second for the 156-acre course now leased by the city, should be in operation in a few weeks, according to Public Works Director Phil Abrams.

"THE COUNTY could move very fast to put this site in operation," Sues reported. "The county has the money, so it's just a matter of acquiring the property."

SCHOOL DISTRICT MEETS SITE ACQUISITION TROUBLE

School district officials today faced a new barrier in plans for immediate acquisition of a new elementary school site.

They found the "perfect" site, but encountered heavy resistance from the property owner.

The site approved by the Board of Education is a 22-acre circle that forms the center of the California Dream Homes subdivision located adjacent to the east city limits, just off East Ramon Road.

BUT ASST. SCHOOLS Supt. Jack Miles reported that the property owner, identified as Jack Silverman, of Palm Springs, "isn't interested in selling."

Miles reported that he negotiated with Silverman through the property owner's agent, who was not identified by school officials. He said he has requested a personal interview with Silverman to renew negotiation.

Miles added that no purchase price has been discussed.

BOARD OF EDUCATION members Friday ordered Miles to "take immediate action to acquire the site in California Dream Homes Estates." They marked the site acquisition as an "extreme priority" and ordered the administration to proceed "as quickly as possible."

Board members and administrators agreed that the site was the best possible to relieve the "increasing burden" at Cleo Vista School, now overcrowded and facing double sessions because of heavy population growth east of the city.

MILES, WHO SAID the district needs 10 of the 22 acres at the Dream Home tract, reported that the circle is presently undeveloped and would probably have to be "re-shaped" for school construction.

Miles explained that the site is particularly desirable because of its convenient location, easy accessibility to Dream Home families and the expected future demands of an area which is facing rapid residential expansion.

He pointed out that the tract contains some 300 homes, most of which house children of school age or youngsters who will attend school in the very near future.

IN ADDITION, Miles noted, there is heavy residential development in the area east of the tract. Many students are residents of the older Outpost Estates development and the Thousand Palms area.

Youngsters from these developments currently attend Cleo Vista School.

The board has some $400,000 available from bond issue funds for construction of an elementary school. The school was originally intended for Section 14 but plans were changed with indications that the Indian-owned land will be heavily "commercialized."

IN FRIDAY NIGHT'S report on site acquisition, the board indicated that condemnation proceedings could be undertaken if negotiations for purchase fail.

None of the board members, however, particularly savor the idea of condemnation, pointing out that it usually involves lengthy court proceedings and that the very word "condemnation" is generally to be avoided "except as a last resort."

HOPE ENDS BAN ON BENEFITS FOR BRITISH ORPHANS

LONDON (UPI) — Bob Hope is breaking his take-it-easy pledge to do a benefit performance for English orphans next week.

Hope, 56, went to Europe for a long rest to ease eye trouble which doctors said was caused by overwork. He was threatened with blindness in his left eye from a blood clot and suffered dizzy spells.

Only two months ago, Hope said he would have to give up his life-long practice of appearing in charity shows because of his illness.

"From now on, I'll be playing a long-term Bob Hope benefit," he said.

But when Hope was asked by Sir Laurence Olivier, president of the Actors' Orphanage, to join next Wednesday's hundred-star revue for the charity, he accepted.

"I'll be delighted to appear for the orphans — although they've never done a thing for me," he cracked to Olivier.

President's 'Hands Off' Policy Hit

Eisenhower Says He'll Intervene If Defense Impaired

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Eisenhower said today that the steel strike for the moment had not created emergency conditions warranting use of the Taft-Hartley Law, but he urged labor and management to continue negotiating.

The President told reporters it was obvious that if the strike lasted so long that steel inventories required by the government were exhausted, the defense production program would face a very serious situation.

HE SAID, HOWEVER, that he was in no position today to estimate accurately how long the strike would have to run before it interfered with the defense program.

He suggested the fullest possible use of free bargaining between labor and management before there is any direct federal intervention. Under the Taft-Hartley Law, the President, if he determines that a labor-management dispute has created an emergency threatening the "health or safety" of the nation, can request the Justice Department to seek an injunction stopping a strike for 80 days.

SENATE DEMOCRATIC Leader Lyndon B. Johnson (Tex.), said he was asking Treasury Secretary Robert B. Anderson for his "best estimate" of tax revenue losses, week by week, which would result from a prolonged strike.

Johnson told newsmen the steel shutdown might wipe out all the good of "prudent" congressional control over spending and appropriations.

WHILE OFFERING no solution to the deadlock in negotiations, he said the situation requires "leadership, understanding, imagination and initiative."

Sen. Stuart Symington (D-Mo.), like Johnson, a potential Democratic presidential candidate in 1960, said the nation "drifted into this strike partly because of a hands-off policy on the part of this administration."

Herter Can Okeh Summit Meet-Ike

WASHINGTON — (UPI) — President Eisenhower said today that Secretary of State Christian A. Herter has full authority to agree to a Big Four Summit Conference if Russia makes it clear it will respect western rights and obligations in Berlin.

The President told his news conference, however, that for the moment there doesn't appear to be any break in the deadlock at just-resumed Geneva Big Four Foreign Ministers conference.

HE SAID HE WAS sure the Russians would like to reach an agreement at Geneva if it was all in their favor. However, he added, the real question was whether the Russians were ready to make concessions, in exchange for western concessions, that would give everybody confidence that there was some progress being made toward peace.

Eisenhower said he was not adverse to going along with the other allies in negotiating the ultimate fate of Germany and Berlin and all other subjects at any level. But in the meantime, he said there must be a clear understanding of western rights.

HE SAID HE AND Herter are in full agreement that they are not going to surrender any rights or make any retreat that would be clear evidence of western weakness.

Eisenhower made it clear that he does not favor suggestions, reportedly advanced by the West Germans, that the Berlin issue be shelved without any agreement and a summit conference held on other issues.

Continues Criticism

Council Asks New Subdivision Law

Urged by City Council members to revise "weak sister" subdivision ordinances, city planning officials today studied a program for the elimination of "cookie-cutter" residential tracts in Palm Springs.

Planning Director Hy Ranes said that a study is now under way and means of ending what one council member labeled a "Roman holiday" for some resort area builders.

THE STUDY coincided with vigorously renewed council criticism of "look alike" houses, minimal landscaping and, in some instances, lack of curbs, gutters and sidewalks in "many subdivisions" springing up throughout the city.

"I have no quarrel with the builders," said Councilwoman Rich Hardy at this week's informal council session, "but there are too many look alike homes. I'm terribly frightened — that's all the town will be if it keeps up."

MRS. HARDY, most outspoken council critic of what she termed "cookie-cutter" homes — dwellings stamped from the same architectural mold — urged immediate action on a revised ordinance requiring, among other things, more variation of residential design in a given tract.

"If we don't have stricter ordinances," she said, "we'll be swallowed up by tract homes and we'll lose our quality building."

Mrs. Hardy also feels that many of these dwellings, particularly the low-cost units, "are too small." In a previous council debate, she also charged that some builders are having a "Roman holiday" because they're not required to build sidewalks or install street trees.

COUNCILMAN GEORGE Beebe heaped a few more coals on the fire with the charge that "our subdivision ordinance is a weak sister."

Beebe particularly attacked the growing forest of power poles springing up in the various subdivisions.

"We've got to put a stop to the increase of these utility poles," he declared. "They ruin the entire desert."

Beebe said he felt the utilities should go underground to eliminate the horizon-marring effect of surface poles.

"I'D LIKE to see a study made for a new ordinance," he remarked.

"We're making one now," Planning Director Ranes answered.

Another council member suggested that perhaps an economical factor entered into the "double-standard" of Palm Springs subdivisions.

It was pointed out that areas of "executive-type" dwellings seemed to have a bit more individualism and eye appeal than units built "for the laboring class."

"SOME OF THESE people can't afford such refinements as underground utilities and trees," one councilman stated. "We have no large payrolls and many residents are semi-retired persons with limited incomes."

"However," he mused, "if we're going to have a well-rounded city, we are going to have to get some light industry."

This was in answer to Mrs. Hardy's report on comparable subdivisions in the "resort area" of Phoenix, Ariz., which, she said, have a high standard of individuality and scenic beauty.

MRS. HARDY ALSO attacked construction of homes on the high slopes of the San Jacinto Mountains, which, she charged, "are scarring the face of our mountain."

She suggested that the city adopt an ordinance limiting the height to which builders may go on the mountain slope.

N.Y. Tennis Club President Quits In Race Incident

NEW YORK (UPI) — The West Side Tennis Club's Board of Governors announced Tuesday night the resignation of the club president, Wilfred Burglund, six days after Dr. Ralph Bunche reported that Burglund told him he and his son could not join because they are Negroes.

The board said it would give "courteous and prompt attention" to any membership application submitted by Bunche, who is undersecretary of the United Nations and a Nobel peace prize winner, and his son.

It denied there were any regulations denying membership to any race or creed and said it already has Jewish and Oriental members.

Bunche said a week ago that when he inquired about membership for his son, Ralph, Jr., 15, Burglund told him the club would not accept Negroes and Jews.

Market Basket Signs Shopping Center Lease

Olman Ray Ryan and Attorney A. R. Simon, president of Seeterra, Inc., joint operators of the multi-acre Palm Springs Shopping Center, today announced that one of Southern California's largest chain supermarkets, Market Basket, will make its desert area debut at Palm Springs Shopping Center next year.

A leasing contract that Market Basket Vice President Duncan Shaw signed with Ryan and Simon will bring Palm Springs one of the largest markets in the history of the entire desert area.

The contract calls for the building of a modern mart at the Southwest corner of McCallum Way and Farrell Drive that will contain a total of 30,000 square feet of floor space. It will be served by a three-acre parking lot and a spacious service yard. Entrances to the market will be located on both McCallum Way and Farrell Drive.

Two Los Angeles architectural firms, Leitch and Cleveland and Mayer and Kanner, are currently developing building plans for the huge project.

HERE'S VITAL DATA IN STEEL IMPASSE

United Press International THE UNION: The United Steelworkers of America, with 500,000 members in steel mills, iron ore mines, Great Lakes ore carriers and other operations.

THE COMPANIES: Twenty-eight steel companies, including the 12 biggest who participated in pre-strike negotiations. Included are the U. S. Steel Corporation, Bethlehem Steel and Republic Steel, which represent 35 per cent of total national steel capacity.

DIRECT DAILY COST OF THE Strike: Approximately 50 million dollars, with steel production losses estimated at 40 million dollars and union wage losses at 10 million dollars. The union has no strike fund.

ESTIMATED PRODUCTION Losses: About 300,000 tons daily at pre-strike rates of production.

ISSUES: Union is seeking package wage increase estimated at more than 15 cents an hour. Also seeks extension of cost-of-living escalator clause contained in three-year contract which expired June 30. Pre-strike steel wages averaged $3.10 an hour.

Industry has proposed one-year wage freeze and elimination of escalator clause. However, companies have offered improved pensions and insurance benefits this year and a modest pay increase next year if the union agrees to increased efficiency in steel plants.

Industry says wage increase would necessitate increase in steel prices and trigger new inflationary spiral. Union maintains that industry's profits and productivity are high enough to warrant wage increase without forcing increase in steel prices.

STRIKE HISTORY: Sixth nationwide steel strike since World War II. Last strike, in 1956, lasted 34 days, costing approximately two billion dollars in production and lost wages. Wages increased total of 62 cents an hour, including 17 cents provided by escalator clause. Steel prices since have increased an average of $34 per ton.

EXPECTED EFFECT: Steel consumers have supplies sufficient for from 30 to 120 days. Agreement, when reached, will set pattern for contract talks in aluminum, copper, canning and railroads. Also will have important effect on wage increases in variety of industries, ranging from autos to missiles.

Steel Union Walkout Marks 6th Strike in 23-Year History

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — The strike of United Steelworkers is the sixth industry-wide walkout in the 23-year history of the union, all after World War II.

The previous walkouts and the settlements:

1936-34 DAYS. A three-year contract which resulted in benefits estimated at 45.6 cents per hour per worker during the life of the agreement.

1935-12 HOURS. Wage increases averaging slightly more than 15 cents per hour.

1932-56 DAYS. Wage increases averaging 16 cents per hour; a modified union shop and elimination of geographical differentials at a cost of about 5 cents per hour.

1949-30 to 42 DAYS. Company-financed pension and insurance programs, but no wage increase.

1946-29 DAYS. A wage increase of 18 1/2 cents per hour.

The steel industry estimated that these walkouts cost the nation 55 million tons of steel production. The current walkout will mean the loss of about 2 1/2 million tons for each week it continues.

The first major strike called by the USW, then the Steelworkers Organizing Committee, was against Jones and Laughlin Steel Corp. in May, 1937. The newly-founded union already had won contracts with 110 companies, including giant U. S. Steel Corp., without a walkout.

THE STRIKE ENDED after 36 hours when J&L agreed to sign a contract if its employees voted for the union in a National Labor Relations Board election. The union won 17,028 to 7,207.

But other large independent firms refused to deal with the union. Within a week, the late Philip Murray, then president of the steel union, had called walkouts against Bethlehem, Republic, Inland and Youngstown Sheet & Tube. At its peak, the walkout idled 90,000 workers.

Morongo Rehearing Denied

Board Refers Palm Desert Requests to Road Officials

Desert roads — from Morongo Valley to Indian Wells — came in for scrutiny by Riverside County Board of Supervisors this week with the far-removed board dealing out a wide variety of action on five requests.

In a nutshell, the supervisors:

—REFERRED A request from Palm Desert Chamber of Commerce for completion of a 10-mile road south of Highway 111 to its Road Department in spite of the complaint by the Chamber's president that he "gets no response" from that agency.

—Deferred a request from the PD Chamber for stop signs on "hazardous" streets to the Road Department.

—APPROVED EXTENSION of Avenue 46 between Indian Wells and Palm Desert.

—Approved improvement of Date Palm Drive from Ramon Road to Highway 60-70-99.

—Nixed a reconsideration of the Dry Morongo route for Highway 187 from Highway 60-70-99 to Morongo Valley. A re-evaluation of a Little Morongo route had been asked.

A COMMUNICATION from the Palm Desert Chamber of Commerce was admitted to have "some degree of urgency" by Supervisor George Berkey. The Chamber asked that the supervisors institute immediate action for completion of the frontage road and installation of traffic signs in the Palm Desert area.

Chamber President Harold (Hal) Kapp declared in the communication to the supervisors that Palm Desert is facing "the most active season" in its history but that work on the frontage road and on installation of badly-needed traffic signs has lagged significantly.

Kapp pledged the PD Chamber's aid "in any way" in expediting the two projects.

THE CHAMBER president specifically noted that three major golf tournaments — including the internationally significant Ryder Cup Matches at Eldorado Golf Club in November — are scheduled this fall in the Palm Desert area.

"These matches will bring literally thousands of visitors to our area and will add to the already burdened traffic on Highway 111 and the streets of our area," Kapp said.

HE ALSO DECLARED that Portola Avenue (particularly at Larrea, Chickory and Paintbrush streets), Shadow Mountain Drive (at Tumblewood) and the intersection of El Paseo and Sun Lodge Lane now constitute safety hazards for drivers and pedestrians.

"We have made these requests of the Road Department," the letter said, "but get no response and therefore we are enlisting your help in getting some action on these important matters."

It was at this point that Supervisor Berkey allowed as how there was "some urgency" in the Chamber's request. The board thereupon referred the matter to the County Road Department.

SUPERVISORS ALSO approved the recommendation of the planning commission and the road commissioner for:

—Extension of Avenue 46 from Smead Road to Paintbrush Street between Indian Wells and Palm Desert.

—Improvement of Date Palm Drive from Ramon Road to Highway 60-70-99 near Thousand Palms.

BUT THE BOARD rejected a plea from Dr. James Compton, president of the Desert Highways Committee, asking that the supervisors request the California Highways Commission to reconsider its Dry Morongo route for Highway 187 from Highway 60-70-99 to Morongo Valley.

The board heard Clyde V. Kane, district engineer for the San Bernardino office of the State Division of Highways, contend that Dr. Compton had "claimed a lot of things." Kane said that Dr. Compton's assertion that a route through Little Morongo Canyon would be less expensive wasn't so.

KANE SAID THAT the approved route through Dry Morongo would cost only "$2,600,000. For Little Morongo, the overall cost would be $4,550,000." He did not explain the variance in figures.

"I'd like," said Supervisor Berkey, "to help out Dr. Compton but I've been unable to find any factual basis."

The Desert Associated Chambers of Commerce had joined the Desert Highways Committee in asking for the re-evaluation of the route for Highway 187.

New Physician,

Medical Clinic

A new physician and surgeon yesterday assumed his duties with the Palm Springs Medical Clinic.

He is Dr. Robert E. O'Brien, a graduate of New York University and the New York Medical College-Flower and Fifth Avenue Hospital.

Dr. O'Brien comes to Palm Springs from the Kaiser Foundation Hospital at Vallejo where he was a member of the staff for two years. Prior to his residence at Vallejo, he was in extensive surgical training in a number of West Coast hospitals and had seen duty as a Navy medical officer during the Korean conflict.

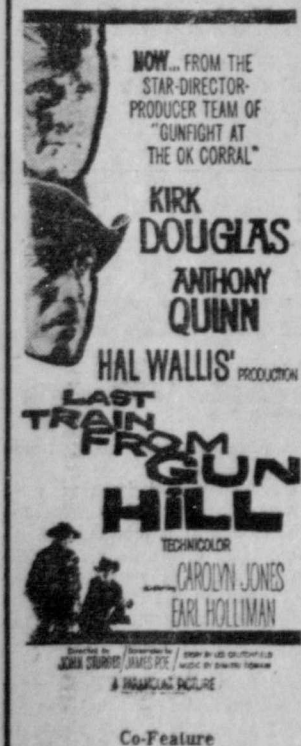

The young medic is now seeking temporary living quarters and his wife and four children — now residing at El Cerrito, Calif. — will join him at that time.

The state of Arkansas has had five different constitutions. The present one, adopted in 1874, has been amended more than 40 times.

Viet Nam Outpost Against Reds

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign Editor

As of the end of 1958, the United States had poured some 800 million dollars into aid for South Viet Nam — an independent republic born of the Geneva conference of 1954 and another of the Southeast Asia outposts guarding against new encroachment by communism.

It was there last week that terrorists, officially identified as Communists, burst from the jungle and killed two American military advisers.

THE AMERICANS were additional victims of an undeclared shooting war which extends along a vast periphery reaching from the 38th Parallel in Korea to the Brandenburg Gate in Berlin.

This is the boundary set up years ago to "contain" communism. And it is the result of international communism's unceasing efforts to burst through this area of containment that Americans die over the China seas and in Indochina and run the risk that they will be the center of a new world war in Berlin.

SOUTH VIET NAM is about twice the size of Maine and contained more than 10 million people. It is the southern part of the former French Indochinese colonial empire in which the French invested more than two billion dollars over a period of 80 years only.

Idyllwild Road Request Studied

A request by property owners that Scenic Drive from Daryll Road to Wayne Drive at Idyllwild be improved on a cooperative basis and taken into the county road system, was referred by the Board of Supervisors this week to the road and planning departments.

The average price of a drug store prescription in the U.S. today is $2.90, according to the Health News Institute.

OBJECTING TO PORTRAIT of him painted by Cameron Booth, Minnesota artist, to be hung with portraits of other governors in State Capitol, Sacramento, ex-Gov. Goodwin J. Knight says he will use every means in his power to prevent it from being placed. He particularly objects to the way his eyes seem to be gazing in space.

Board Wants Reduced Tax Rate This Year

A cut in the county tax rate from the $1.89 per $100 assessed valuation indicated by the preliminary 1959-60 budget to $1.62, two cents below the present rate of $1.64, became the goal of the Board of Supervisors this week when they voted unanimously to instruct Administrative Officer Robert T. Andersen to reconsider the budget and come up with recommendations for cuts that would reduce it to a figure which would lower the tax rate to $1.62.

The reduction is to be made without anticipation of continuation of the sales tax program, which has been in jeopardy for some time, after Oct. 1.

"The proposed cut isn't realistic," declared Supervisor Paul Anderson, "but I'd like to see it done, and maybe Andersen is a miracle man!"

Impartial Study

2 Cities Accept Sales Tax Plan

Palm Springs and Hemet became the first of the county's cities this week to signify to the Board of Supervisors willingness to abide by a determination to be arrived at from a study by experts as to the percentages of sales tax receipts which should be allocated to the county under the Bradley-Burns sales tax program.

"We urge other cities to also agree to submit to a study by experts with the understanding that the county and the cities will accept the resultant recommendations," declared the City of Hemet.

PALM SPRINGS expressed "Interest in a study proposed by the League of Cities and other organizations for a further independent study of the problem," and requested that "the League by committee define scope of study in the interest of securing a permanent and equitable distribution of sales and use tax funds between the county and the cities."

fining to the actual problem of distribution of sales and use tax funds and not to other unrelated city or county activities," promised the Palm Springs City Council, "then the City of Palm Springs will support such a survey and pay the city's fair share of the cost."

THE BOARD OF Supervisors stated last week that it will abide by the findings from a sales tax study and will pay half the cost of such a study provided the county's 13 cities will agree to do the same.

The City of Elsinore notified the board of supervisors that it is agreeable to continuance of the present program whereby all cities but Palm Springs allocate 10 per cent to the county and Palm Springs allocates 5 per cent. From the Perris Valley Chamber of Commerce came concurrence with need for continuance of the sales tax program and of a study "by an impartial agency."

WHAT DO THEY KNOW about heat in Los Angeles! On the same day the smogbound town complained about 103-degree heat, Marine Pfc. G. W. Harn fried himself a couple of eggs on the hood of his car — while Old Sol registered a 133-degree reading for Twenty-nine Palms Marine Corps Base. The Military Policeman enjoyed a fried egg sandwich during a "coffee break," then resumed his MP duties. (Official USMC Photo.)

BACKSTRAND HAILS NEW FREEWAY LAW

California's scheduled system of water developments — billed as the "largest engineering job in the state's history" — may turn out to be a poor second to the mammoth (and still expanding) system of high-speed roads, Assemblyman Lee Backstrand forecast this week.

Backstrand, who represents the 71st District in the State Legislature, said that the California Freeway and Expressway System designated into law two weeks ago by Governor Edmund G. Brown — will give the Golden State the "largest system of such highways in any state."

THE SYSTEM IS to be composed of 12,000 miles of existing and new roadways.

The assemblyman said that the project, which is to be completed over a 20-year span, will deliver to California's drivers a $10.5-billion carpet for their automotive travels.

Police May Have to Wait For Car Theft Suspect

Palm Springs police today said they hope to exercise a car theft warrant for the arrest of Gordon Atteberry, the recently captured, alleged leader of a $100,000 Los Angeles burglary ring.

But they may have to wait a century or two before they get him.

ATTEBERRY, 22-YEAR-old electronics graduate and amateur hypnotist, was captured in Reno, Nev., by federal agents last Saturday. He is accused of operating a burglary ring that garnered more than $100,000 in "high class" loot in an area stretching from San Diego to Bakersfield.

SIGHT SAVED BY EYE OPERATIONS

REDLANDS — Two intricate eye operations have saved the sight of Villager Mrs. Valeria Wagner, it was learned today following post-operative examinations.

Mrs. Wagner, wife of Albert C. Wagner, of 404 Camino Del Sur here, is recuperating in the couple's Napa, Calif., summer home with her family. The Wagners have a four-year-old daughter, Ellen, and a two-year-old son, Albert, Jr.

The Wagner family belongs to the Community Church of Palm Springs.

The family plans to return to Palm Springs in October.

North Palm Springs

By ORPHA GEIER

THE OPERATIONS were performed on June 19 and 26 in Redlands Community Hospital by Dr. Gordon Witter following preliminary examinations and treatment at the Beaver Clinic in Redlands.

A "clouded lens" condition in Mrs. Wagner's eyes was successfully removed in the two operations. Had the operation been unsuccessful, the woman would have faced blindness. The doctor indicated that Mrs. Wagner will stand an excellent chance of fully recovering all facets of sight.

AMONG VISITORS in the Redlands Community Hospital during the time of the operation were Dr. James Blackstone, pastor of the Community Church of Palm Springs, and Mrs. Helen GeeFay, choral singer of the same church.

Bill Volgman and his nephew, Jim Parker left Tuesday morning by car for a month's vacation with relatives and friends in Iowa and Illinois.

Bill and Ann Messer and Pamela drove to Altadena to spend the weekend with Mr. Thomas Fagan and Patty.

Dinner guests of Orpha Geier included Lucille Trundall and Ridgill Roberts of El Monte, Glen York and Norma Glabb of Phoenix, Ariz.; Helen Willis and Bill Lawton.

W. O. Newberry, who has been confined to the Long Beach military hospital for the past three weeks, is improving steadily. During his absence Joe Killen is helping with the grocery store.

Author Quit Films Over TV Reception Set For College President, Wife

Novels Replace Scripts

By GEORGE LAINE

Television kicked holes in the motion picture industry, in the book (and author) trade and has achieved a status as "the No. 1 mediocrity of our history," a ranking American author said here this week.

"But it drove me back into writing my own kind of things," Bob Buckner said, lighting a filter cigarette, "so I guess I shouldn't be too harsh with TV."

BUCKNER, WHOSE latest work a novel called "Sigrid and the Sergeant," is a huge success in Europe even if it's only doing so-so business in the U. S., doesn't minimize the pitfalls of television. "I spent nearly 20 years in Hollywood," Buckner said. "I left movies in 1954—when television started to change the film industry."

The angular man with the pronouncedly British accent—he took pre-med for five years at Scotland's University of Edinburgh—went into the cinema city in 1934 on the strength of his writings. Two decades later, Buckner left for the strength of his writings.

BUCKNER'S ENTRY into Hollywood was no chance arrangement. A onetime newspaperman—he was the first American to work for the London Mail and also worked for the London Express and the now-defunct New York World—Buckner had always been a clever guy with words.

In 1934, Atlantic Monthly published Buckner's "The Man Who Won the War." The story won the O'Brien Award for that year, was published in Reader's Digest and eventually resulted in Columbia Pictures request for Buckner to come to Hollywood, prepare the screenplay.

Thirteen weeks later, Buckner went to work for Warner Brothers and stayed 14 years. He went free-lance after that—writing and sometimes producing—but chucked it all in 1954.

"I WAS GETTING pretty fed up with it all in Hollywood," he said, shifting in the large white modern chair in his Chinese-modern home at 141 Navajo Circle here.

"I've got some scars," he said thoughtfully, "but I feel I got out in time."

Television, high taxes and "economy" writers altered the cinema scene in filmland, reduced the "star system" to a heap of rubble and sent Buckner—like many another competent writer—out of the celluloid jungle.

BUCKNER WENT TO Europe in 1954, wrote "Sigrid and the Sergeant" and a half dozen shorter stories and discovered that he "got more of a kick out of selling a story to Saturday Evening Post than I ever did out of selling a screenplay to a film studio."

Bob has been married since a year after his arrival in California, explains that most of his "Hollywood friends" think he's strange since he and Mary are still married to each other.

"In Hollywood," he said, "you're very dull if your marriage lasts. We paid the price of sticking together."

MARY BUCKNER stayed in Balboa this week when Bob came home to catch up on some of his current projects.

"She winks a little in the heat here but I love Palm Springs even during the 'dog days,'" he said. "I'm really up to my neck in work, you know."

Current projects for Buckner include:

—The finishing touches on a fictionalized version of the rise to eminence of the sports car—specifically the British sports car—with Buckner's close friend Alex Guinness reportedly eager to work in a film based on the book.

—Collaboration with another author on a searching analysis of the impact and prevalence of the Mafia in this nation.

VIRGINIA-BORN, the author would rather not talk about his distinguished family tree—a tree that includes the first man to establish a printshop in the U.S. (in 1607), Civil War General Simon Bolivar Buckner and Colin Buckner, gunner for Admiral John Paul Jones who was granted the first commission to be issued on the founding of the U. S. Marine Corps.

Bob and Mary Buckner have a youthful son—Bob, Jr.—and a youthful daughter—Sharon de la Marinere, now in France with her efficiency expert husband.

Buckner says his family is "content" with him as an author but admits that it might have been wiser for him to become an engineer or a doctor.

NOT PESSIMISTIC—just realistic—Buckner figures the rush to TV has also managed to make America's current era an "almost impossible environment" for authors.

"In Europe, authors are regarded as artists and are accorded great respect," he mused. "In

Wagon Is Not a Home

PIERRE, S.D. (UPI) — The secretary of state's office found an 1899 South Dakota law prohibiting prostitution "in prairie schooners or covered wagons."

The law was in manuscript form and signed by Gov. Andrew E. Lee. It provided a six-month jail sentence for "inmates found guilty."

Both agencies extended an invitation "to all friends of the school district" to attend the reception, "and welcome the McCalls to the Coachella Valley."

The McCalls, and their son, David, are now living in Palm Desert.

Sightseeing Russians Miss Practice in Rainy Philadelphia

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Russia's track and field team, hampered by heavy rains and equipment difficulties, hoped today to get in its first full practice session since arriving in this country for a dual meet with American athletes this weekend.

The 69 men and women track stars, along with 15 Soviet officials and interpreters accompanying them, went sightseeing this morning before reporting to Franklin Field where the meet will be held Saturday and Sunday.

THE RUSSIANS have had less than five hours of practice since leaving the Soviet Union last Saturday. They stopped off in Belgium Sunday for a sightseeing tour, arriving in New York Monday morning and came here by bus. They got in about 90 minutes of practice late Monday afternoon but the performers were forced to lounge around their hotel here most of the day Tuesday waiting for a steady downpour to stop.

It wasn't until late in the day that they were able to get out for three hours despite occasional drizzling.

BUT THE QUESTION of whether the Russians would decide to use the usual runways or the new "grasslex" footpaths installed in the stadium this year still was up in the air.

Officials of the meet left it up to Russian coach Gavriao Korobkov to decide which runways would be used, but Korobkov postponed a decision until his athletes could test the grasslex surface.

THE NEW RUNWAYS, made of a macadam base with a seed fiber surface, require special shoes with "needle" spikes. But the special shoes weren't on hand for the Russians and fourteen pairs were ordered for Tuesday's practice.

However, some of the shoes turned out to be the wrong size. Two girl high jumpers and four male stars—two pole vaulters and two decathlon athletes—worked out with the new shoes on the macadam runways with Don Bragg, the American pole vaulter. They displayed little difficulty using the shoes and runways but refused to comment officially on them.

KOROBKOV MADE a last minute switch in his lineup Tuesday, naming 21-year-old Igor Ter-Ovanesyan, standout broad jumper, to the decathlon event in place of Kim Bukhantsev, veteran discus thrower. Ter-Ovanesyan will team with world record holder Vasily Kuznetsov in the two-day, 10-event endurance test against America's Dave Edstrom and Mike Herman.

SCHOENDIENST IN WORKOUTS FOR MILWAUKEE RETURN
ST. LOUIS (UPI) — Red Schoendienst, who fought a successful battle against tuberculosis, continued workouts today for his return to the Milwaukee Braves' lineup Sept. 1.

"I've been working out since the first of June and doing a little running," Schoendienst said Tuesday. "And I hope to start batting practice the beginning of August. I also have been throwing a ball around and it feels great."

Schoendienst was found to have tuberculosis last November and was admitted to Mt. St. Rose Hospital. In February he underwent surgery to have part of the diseased right lung removed.

TODAY'S SPORTS PARADE

Did Ingo Use 'Evil Eye'?

By OSCAR FRALEY
NEW YORK (UPI) — Jimmy Grippo, the svengali of sock, insisted today that a hypnotized Ingemar Johansson mesmerized Floyd Patterson to win the heavyweight championship of the world and Rocky Marciano could do the same thing.

"There have been rumors that Marciano may make a comeback," said the man with the black, bushy hair and the burning eyes. "If the Rock were to use the Grippo plan of hypnosis he would virtually launch the Swede into orbit."

YOU DON'T HAVE to possess the occult powers of an "Evil Eye" Finkel to see that there are more than two sides to this supposition.

Hypnosis may be great for natural reproduction, painless tooth extraction and vaudeville entertainment, but there is a suspicion in some corners—including this one—that it will never win the pennant for the current Philadelphia Phillies, cause Sam Sneed to capture the United States Open, inspire a five-horse parlay or turn a fistic tabby into a tiger.

NOT THAT MARCIANO falls into such a category. But the current Rock would have to spend before he'd be in condition for two years in a turkish steam bath fistic hypnosis.

Grippo, a man who practiced the black arts on his former lightweight champion, Mello Bettina, and also on Nino Valdes.

ALLIANCE, Ohio, (UPI) — Thirty-two of the nation's top women golfers open firing Thursday for the richest purse on the summer tour—the $12,500 Alliance International.

the sometimes Cuban gladiator, should be cognizant of the fact. He once put Bettina "under" and then stood helplessly by as Mello was flattened in the first round. "I think," moaned James, "that I forgot to un-hypnotize him."

IT SHOULD ALSO be pointed out that the erstwhile St. Louis Browns of gone and happily-forgotten memory once hired a hypnotist to convince their hitless hitters and pitchless pitchers that they were nothing but sleeping beauties. It was a negative process. The mesmerizing prince did his best but the St. Louis snow whites remained in a stupefied slumber afield. At last reports, the hypnotist was going to a hypnotist.

On the credit side of the ledger, Don Newcombe used the deeper sleep suggestion method to cure his fear of airplanes.

AND, YOU CAN TAKE it from Grippo, Johansson used hypnosis to prepare himself for the bout with Patterson.

"He spent several hours daily with his private physician, who talked him into peak mental shape," Jimmy observes. "This can mean only one thing. The Swedish doctor gave Ingo the Grippo treatment of hypnotic conditioning."

Sikes Takes Public Links Lead on 68

Fires Better Round Than Title-Winning Start Last Year

DENVER (UPI) — Dan Sikes, Jr., is off to a better start in the National Public Links golf tournament than he was a year ago when he won the championship.

Sikes, a 28-year-old law student at the University of Florida, became the tourney medalist Tuesday when he toured the 6,617-yard Wellshire Municipal Course in 68 strokes, three under par. It gave him a two-day total of 137 over the 36 qualifying holes.

THE SKINNY Jacksonville, Fla. golfer won the 1958 title at Orland Park, Ill., after barely surviving the qualifying rounds. He squeezed through an extra-hole playoff, and went on to defeat Bob Ludlow of Indianapolis, Ind., 3 and 2, in the finals.

Sikes drew Al Benefiel of Denver for today's start of match play. Benefiel qualified with a 142.

"I'M A BETTER medal player than match," Sikes said after dropping an 8-foot putt on the 18th hole to win medalist honors.

Tuesday's medal rounds trimmed the field from 150 to 64 for the start of today's match rounds. Two rounds today will trim the field to 16.

Duren Saves Yanks Win Over Injuns

An 0.83 earned run average and a string of 31 1-3 consecutive scoreless innings stamp Ryne Duren today as the fellow who may yet save the New York Yankees' hide and pride.

Casey Stengel called him "my guy" after Duren saved Tuesday night's 1-0 victory over the Cleveland Indians and it's obvious no Yankee manager ever has relied so heavily on a relief pitcher since Bucky Harris tossed Joe Page in wine and song back in 1947.

NO AMERICAN League relief pitcher ever has won a most valuable player award but Duren could be the first to do so. His 1-2 won-lost record is completely deceptive, of course, because he is credited with eight "saves" and the way he is pitching he could wind up setting two new league records.

With his string of consecutive scoreless innings, Duren is getting into position to threaten Walter Johnson's 46-year-old record of 58 straight. And Ryne's current 0.83 e.r.a. is considerably lower than the 45-year-old league mark of 1.01 held by H. B. (Dutch) Leonard of the Boston Red Sox.

DUREN DID IT again Tuesday night when Stengel hustled him out of the bullpen to protect the one-run Yankee lead which existed since the second inning. Ryne faced eight men, walked one, allowed one hit and struck out three to protect Whiskey Ford's first victory in three weeks and ninth of the year.

The victory broke the Yankees' five-game losing streak and also enabled the Chicago White Sox to move within two percentage points of the Indians via their 7-3 win over the Boston Red Sox. The Baltimore Orioles beat the Kansas City Athletics, 3-1, after a 1-0 defeat and the Washington Senators downed the Detroit Tigers, 4-2, in the other A. L. games.

FIRST-PLACE San Francisco was rained out in the National League but neither of the two principal contenders could take advantage of it. The Chicago Cubs whipped the Milwaukee Braves, 10-5, and the Pittsburgh Pirates romped over the Los Angeles Dodgers, 9-1.

The St. Louis Cardinals beat the Cincinnati Reds, 6-5, in 11 innings and ended Don Newcombe's eight-game streak.

ARAGON TO HAVE BOUT IN COURT BEFORE JORDAN

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Art Aragon, colorful Los Angeles boxer and possible contender for Don Jordan's world welterweight title, faces preliminary hearing July 21 on an assault with a deadly weapon charge arising out of a street tussle with his former wife.

Mrs. Georgina Aragon, 30, had the 31-year-old fighter jailed briefly Monday when she complained to police that he knocked her to the ground and tried to run over her with his car Sunday in front of her North Hollywood home.

"She's crazy," replied Aragon, sometimes called the Golden Boy. "I never struck her. She hit me."

Aragon had scratches to prove, he said. He showed police scratch marks on his neck and left arm and a torn white shirt which he said his wife inflicted.

NEW HEAVYWEIGHT KINGPIN Ingemar Johansson has been feuded like visiting royalty throughout his native Sweden since winning the title from Floyd Patterson last month. Here he meets friends and neighbors in his home town of Goteborg before heading for an official reception with the mayor. "Ingo" said he was ready for rematch with Patterson and also allowed that he'd meet Rocky Marciano "if he really wants to fight me."

Young Marrieds Lead Dull Life, Is Lament of Expert

COLUMBIA, Mo. — UPI — A modern knight in shining armor holds no charm for the American woman seeking a husband — and the world is the worse for her attitude, says Margaret Mead, author and anthropologist.

Generally preferred as husband material in this space age is the homey type who will help with the children, go on picnics, and lend a hand with the family wash, she said. Women no longer want to marry men with interesting—but possibly risky—jobs.

"Girls marry boys who will take the safe, easy job, with tenure and security and all the fringe benefits," she said. "In the world we're going to have to face for another 50 years, that's not enough. It doesn't leave room for people to make exciting advances in science, art, or exploration."

Miss Mead, here to help plan a two and a half - million - dollar Learning Center for Stephens College, a two - year college for women, blamed young people's addiction to security on their parents. The latter, she said, reacted from the insecurity of the depression of the 1930's, then World War II and the Korean conflict.

"Young married couples don't realize their life is dull," she said. "We are going now on the assumption that every American boy has the right to four little replicas of himself, at least two of them before he gets out of college."

Wives, she said, don't want husbands so interested in a job that the wife plays second fiddle to work.

Miss Mead also lambasted what she called "the urban sprawl, one long hot dog stand from New York to Chicago."

The practice of "throwing up homes and buildings with no thought to the total effect creates an essential ugliness over the American terrain," she said.

Ultimately, this unplanned urban sprawl will result in corrosive effects, including boredom and apathy.

"Are our world and its values worth living for when it is merely one long hot dog stand?" she said.

Pickle Squares

Youngsters will go for pickle luncheon squares. For 8 servings, combine 1 1/2 ounce can of luncheon meat, chopped, with 1/4 cup each of chopped sweet mixed pickles and chopped walnuts, and 1 tablespoon of chopped parsley. Mix well, spread on 8 bread slices of process American cheese. Broil from 5 to 6 minutes about 3 to 4 inches from heat source.

There'll be a flurry of accessories next fall. The emphasis will be on patterned and two-toned furs. Look for berets in white mink tail, belts of elongated leopard and jaguar, leopard ascots, fox-trimmed jackets, and two-toned mink shawls, combining white and ranch pelt. Mittens come in civet-patterned dyed rabbit. Muffs are back in mink, fox and leopard. One leopard muff doubles as a shoulder bag. Other bags come in sleek hair seal in gold, gray and green.

Look for an increase in "matching" shoes for fall—fabric footwear dyed in a solid shade to coordinate with a costume or made of the same fabric as the costume. This latter matching is possible when a woman is lucky enough to get an extra swatch of material and is near a shoemaker who will custom - make the footwear for her.

Bright shoes give a colorful lift to the summer wardrobe. They come in red canvas tie styles, orange, olive and turquoise striped wedges, and green, tangerine or lilac straw flats.

If your feet hurt on hot summer days, it may be due to too-short stockings. One hosiery manufacturer says most women buy stockings a half size too short. Seamless styles tend to pull taut, so get a half size larger than usual, he said.

Flowers aren't the only things that make perfume sweet. The modern perfumer has about 1,500 products to choose from, and sometimes uses hundreds in one scent. Perfumes are extracted from wood, bark, gum, root, kitchen herbs, seeds, nuts, grass, and animals. The beaver, civet, sperm whale, and male musk deer are chief blenders.

Modern sunglasses can be traced centuries back. Cleopatra held emeralds to her eyes to guard them against the glare of Egyptian sun. Eskimos protected their eyes with slotted spectacles made of whalebone.

Fall and Winter Fashions Bring Back the Normal Look

By GAY PAULEY
UPI Women's Editor

NEW YORK (UPI)—Fall and winter fashions have returned us women to the normal look.

The new silhouette shows the shape, ending the era of the sad sack; the clothes emphasize the natural waistline; skirts are an inch longer than fall 1958; and a fellow might even get by without promising her a mink coat this year. There are enough less expensive and handsome furs for putting up the argument anyway.

Designers, crawling from under the barrage heaped on their heads because of the chemise, are turning to familiar things as children reach for a familiar toy.

One New York fashion editor after a few days of previewing fall clothes in the seventh avenue showrooms announced that "the missing magic ingredient in most of the American collections is guts."

Well, they may lack moxie, but they're generally becoming.

Trends in dresses, coats, suits, hats, furs and accessories will be reported in detail this week by some 250 reporters from the nation's newspapers, radio and television stations. They are in New York for the semi-annual "press week," held by the couture group of the New York Dress Institute. All told, the reporters will see 60 designer collections.

The major trends:
A mannish look for day—with man-tailored suits revived, with milliners copying fedoras, derbies and homburgs, and with suit jackets copies either of men's smoking jackets complete with bathrobe belt, or the classic three-button with the bottom button worn open.

Opulence for late day and evening, in lavish fur trims, in costly fabrics like cut velvet, metallic brocades, embroidered silks, lace layered on lace and bead-covered chiffons.

Belts accenting natural waistlines, with some cinchlets as wide as three inches. Many of the belts are soft, crushable suede or kid. Many are of self-fabric built into the garment, cumberbund fashion.

The familiar shirtwaist, a best-seller summer long, moves right into winter, in daytime wools, evening silks.

Suits have jackets longer than last year, most of them reaching the wristbone when the arm is down. Some jackets are boxy and unbuttoned; others are buttoned, in single and double-breasted versions, and shaped slightly to the waist. Still others are belted. The majority of suit skirts are slim cut, but a few have knife or flat box pleats.

Coats come with a little more swing and fullness to the back. Returned in many collections—the princess coat.

Rolled Sandwiches

Rolled sandwiches have a party look. Combine one 3-ounce package of softened cream cheese with 1 2 1/2-ounce can of deviled ham and 1 tablespoon of chopped chives. Mix well and spread on 8 slices of whole wheat bread with the crusts removed. Cut a dill pickle into 8 sticks and roll each sandwich around a pickle stick in jelly roll style. Fasten with toothpicks if necessary.

Broil Bananas

Broiled bananas take only 10 minutes to cook. Peel firm, green-tipped bananas, sprinkle with a little lemon juice and brush with melted butter. Add a little brown sugar, more lemon juice and a dash of cinnamon. Broil 10 minutes 3 inches from heat source.

most miles per gallon

ONE OF THE 7 BIG BESTS CHEVROLET GIVES YOU OVER ANY CAR IN ITS FIELD

Take it, not from us, but from official results of this year's Mobilgas Economy Run: Chevy's pennypinching 6 delivers the most miles per gallon in its field. For a pair of these Chevrolet sixes with Powerglide walked away with the first two places in their class, getting the best mpg figure—a whopping 22.38—of any full-size car. And here are more expert, impartial opinions and on-the-record facts backing us up on Chevy's other six bests:

BEST TRADE-IN

Check the figures in any N.A.D.A.* Guide Book. Chevrolet used car prices last year averaged up to $128 higher than comparable models of the "other two."

BEST STYLE

It's the only car of the leading low-priced 3 that's unmistakably modern in every line. "In its price class," says POPULAR SCIENCE magazine, "Chevrolet establishes a new high in daring styling."

BEST BRAKES

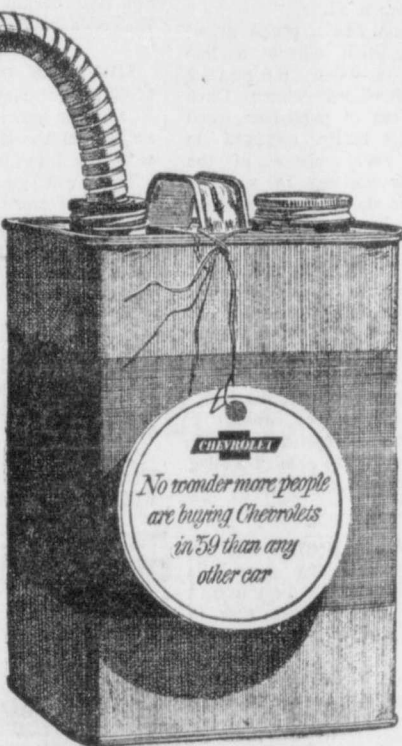

In direct competitive tests of repeated stops from highway speeds, conducted by NASCAR, Chevrolet out-stopped both of the other leading low-priced cars—and why not? Chevy brakes are far larger, built with bonded linings, to help lengthen brake life by as much as 66%.

BEST ROOM

Official dimensions reported to A.M.A.† make this clear. For example, Chevy front seat hip room is up to 5.9 inches wider than comparable cars.

BEST ENGINE

Every motor magazine has given Chevrolet's standard and Corvette V8's unstinted praise. As SPORTS CARS ILLUSTRATED puts it: "Indeed this device is surely the most wonderfully responsive engine available today at any price."

BEST RIDE

MOTOR TREND magazine calls Chevy "... the smoothest, most quiet, softest riding car in its price class." You'll be able to tell this yourself, instantly. And your Chevrolet dealer can tell you about a long list of other advantages besides these 7 big ones!

California Exceeding Previous High Records For Growth and Prosperity

California is experiencing the greatest period of growth and prosperity in its exceptionally progressive history.

Long a leader in population gains, this State has now passed all others except New York and is steadily closing up the slight gap remaining to reach first place, the total number of inhabitants now nearing the 16,000,000 mark.

Almost every economic index reflects healthy accompanying increases and many of record making proportions.

June employment in the Golden State was at an all-time high for any month of 4,651,200 showing a gain of 17,000 above May and 91,000 more than June of 1958. Principal increase was in manufacturing payrolls and indicative of steady industrial growth.

Retail sales tax reports for the first quarter of 1959 showed a most marked rise in durable goods with new motor vehicle sales up 33.5 per cent as compared to the same period in 1958; lumber and building material gained 32.5 per cent, and, farm implement sales rose 13.3 per cent.

Average increase in retail sales taxes collected by California during January, February and March was 17.2 per cent greater than during the same months of 1958. For the first time quarterly sales in the State neared $5,000,000 yielding almost $1,500,000 in tax revenues.

While allowances for inflationary increases in the general cost of living must be made in annual comparisons, the gains were much greater in proportion and credited principally to population growth, increased sales volume, a rise in personal income, expansion of consumer credit and employment expansion.

Second quarter results are now in the process of tabulation and reporting, but estimates in most instances show a continuation of the record breaking pace, as do prospects for the third quarter which is now several weeks under way.

Locally, Palm Springs and the Desert Empire are gaining even faster than the State average in almost every important classification.

California has never "had it so good" with better assurance of even greater gains in the important months now approaching.

With Malice for Most

WASHINGTON, D. C. — Democratic Chairman Paul Butler seems to have pulled a "Lewis Strauss." This is a difficult feat for a Democrat, but Butler has angered the 86th Senate's majority party as only the rejected Secretary of Commerce, an Old Guard Republican, had previously managed to do.

In his telecast over the weekend of the Glorious Fourth, the man who gets $35,000 a year for uniting Democrats managed to fission the Democratic party on Capitol Hill like a Bikini blast.

FOR A NUMBER of years Butler and associated provocateurs have been playing foot-pranks on the Congressional Democrats, usually at a busy part of the session. Other pranks among the non-elective Democratic Advisory Council, the ADA and individual mischief-makers have been ex-Candidate Stevenson, ex-Governor Harrison, ex-President Truman, California National Committeeman Paul Ziffren, Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt and Governor "Soapy" Williams of Michigan.

If the needling had a purpose in the past it was to force a fight between Democrats and Republicans. Several years ago Senate Leader Lyndon Johnson was at a Jackson Day dinner to introduce Adlai Stevenson. During the meal Stevenson chided Johnson for not assailing the GOP President with greater vigor and frequency.

JOHNSON PUT his hand over the mike, prior to presenting Stevenson to the national hook-up and in effect dared Stevenson to be the Lone Eagle, if he wished, by assailing the popular President before this large audience. The dare was not taken.

Butler's recent blast, however, does not seem intended to sick his colleagues upon the GOP. Such, at least, is the consensus of certain professors of political motivation who practice their dark science in the Congressional nooks and corridors. As these learned brethren interpret the Butler message, it was a punitive expedition, not against Republicans (after all, Butler gets paid for that), but against Democrats.

IN THE TELECAST, Butler had unkind things to say about the House and Senate leadership, the Democratic committee chairman, the Democratic rank and file and the "younger members of Congress." This last is taken to mean the Class of '58, those fledglings elected last year with a "mandate" to be Spenders.

Butler's low opinion of Congressional Democrats calls to mind some features of the debate on the confirmation of Lewis Strauss. Again and again, Democratic Senators took the floor to say that the Secretary-designate had held Congress "in contempt" by his words and deeds.

A KEYNOTE BEGINNING to be sounded by liberal spokesmen and columnists is to this effect — that the Democratic party should avoid nominating a "name" or a "personality," but should unite on a standard-bearer who is known only as the embodiment of Democratic liberal "principles." This might be somebody as relatively obscure as Congressman Chester Bowles of Connecticut, or as newly-arrived as Gov. Pat Brown of California.

Just where the Democratic "principles" differ from the Democratic performance is hard to pinpoint unless it is only a matter of competitive spending. One Capitol Hill soothsayer remarked that the modern slogan of Democratic liberals seems to be, "I hear you and raise you." This seems as good a distinction as we're going to get between the Democratic positions of Paul Butler and Lyndon Johnson. —Holmes Alexander

NEW BOOK

Marx Work Deals With Jewish Question

A World Without Jews, by Karl Marx. Philosophical Library, New York. $2.75.

Placed in its proper perspective, "A World Without Jews" can lend important new insight into a man who has created more confusion for philosophy majors than any other writer whose works are available.

To comprehend what Marx is talking about when he discusses the so-called "Jewish question," the work must be considered in at least three major respects. They are:

- 1—MARX WAS A Jew himself, writing from the "inside" of the subject.
- 2—Marx was reared in a rabbinical family.
- 3—Marx' concepts of a communistic state that would be "free" of the stifling limitations, the lack of freedom of religious institutions, predicated his every word.

THE TRUTH OF THE matter is that Marx, as Phineas J. Biron points out in the May 22 issue of the B'nai B'rith Messenger, "is against all religions." Marx' attack, thus, becomes not an anti-semitic hate message — as Dagobert D. Runes mistakenly indicated with his introduction to this first English translation—but an all-enveloping diatribe against religions in general. (The fact that Judaism, particularly Zionist Judaism, is singled out for the harshest of criticism heaps great import on the weight of that religion in the eyes of Marx.)

WHAT MARX HAS actually

done in his treatise on religion is to nail another board on his "ideal communism" house.

He maintains throughout the work that the perfect political state is impossible without a freedom from the demands of any socio-economic pressure and makes it plain that he considers religion to be equal parts of both monsters.

Quoting liberally from Hegel's "Philosophy of Law," Marx finally sets forth his admission that "political emancipation is indeed a great goal . . . and let it be understood that we mean real, practical emancipation."

"Man emancipates himself from religion politically by relegating it from public to private law," says Marx.

FROM THAT POINT, the inevitable flows. For the Christians:

"The so-called Christian state needs the Christian religion to complete itself as a state," he says. "The democratic state, the true state requires no religion in order to be politically complete."

For the Catholics:

"In relation to this Church, which proclaims worldly power

"We're not bored. We get a few telephone calls you know. In fact, we got too many last night."

its servant, the state is impotent, as is all worldly power which claims to be under the rule of the religious spirit."

And, finally, for the Jews:

"Judaism," he says, "has maintained itself alongside Christianity not only as a religious criticism of Christianity, and as an official questioner as to its religious origin, but also because the materialistic spirit of Judaism has kept itself alive in Christian society and achieved there its highest expression."

That, for this reviewer, is the real point of perception within the framework of Marx' essay. It is not in bold face, as are other Marx indictments against Judaism.

THE PHILOSOPHICAL Library, which is several degrees above reproach for its continuing efforts to bring the world's storehouse of philosophical writings to the public, has received quick criticism from the aforementioned Biron and Runes.

Biron called the title "sensational" and Runes intimated in his introduction that he was reluctant to be connected with the Marx work even from an appraisers point of view.

It may be that both men reacted from within the limitation of their religious experience, a regrettable happenstance to be sure. To repeat, however, the essay does not have value within the broad lines of Marxian thought and can lend additional insight into that much-maligned, grossly abused philosopher's ideal of a perfect state.—George Lalas.

He That Giveth—Also Taketh Away

This Side of The Sun

By Phat

The seventh month, The eleventh day, Seven-Eleven, It's going my way.

Chicago, Ill. Saturday, 7-11 This is my lucky day. The calendar says so. I should have arranged my schedule to be in Las Vegas today.

Nothing could throw me for a loop today. I'm in the Loop.

SOMETIME DURING the night, while I was sleeping peacefully, we crossed the Missouri between Omaha and Council Bluffs. And Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific power took over.

Pretty straight stretch of tracks here and I didn't have too much trouble with the product that puts on the Worlds Series, Friday night fights, Rose Bowl Game, the All Star fracas and the triple crown of racing. Although it still irks me the quick way they shave in the TV commercials and how long it takes me.

JUST FINISHED a substantial breakfast when we boomed across the Mississippi. Into a place called Savanna where we stopped for a while.

Next stop was a place called Davis Junction where a line runs up to Beloit, passing through Rockford where Dave Risvold, son of publisher Ward Risvold, is busily engaged in learning every phase of the newspaper business in a thriving 24-hour daily. Will call him up while here.

WELL, NOW refreshed, inside and outside, to rejoin the Tribe. John, the No. 1 grandson, has already told the others that it takes time to grow more than one chin.

"You've got to be at least 30," he said. (Thank you, John.)

Bill, No. 2, surprised me. He was whole. Not an arm in a sling or a cracked clavicle or a bandaged ankle.

BILL, AGED EIGHT, has discovered that taking his little girl friends to the topmost branches of the apple tree in the back yard, is strictly for the birds.

And that you don't have to do a tight-rope act on the top of a five-foot shaky fence, to impress them.

Alan, six, is too busy to notice anyone. I brought him all of the issues of Trains magazine received since I was there last fall.

He's just ohing and ahing over the pictures.

ROBBIE, AGED FOUR, nature boy I call him, also has developed rapidly.

Now, when he wanders out of the house at seven a.m. while the rest of the family is preparing for another day, he wears the pants of his pajamas as well as the coat.

Canvas, the pointer dog, is just as patient as ever.

She won't take any rough stuff from Explorer, the only pup left her from her first batch but lets the four boys maul her unmercifully with just a wag of her tail and a lick of the tongue to show her affection.

And so back to town on the Q commuter and the peace and quiet of the traffic noises.

STAN DELAPLANE'S Postcard

You will find few cats who swing higher on musical culture than your musical correspondent. So I was delighted to get a peek at the swing-and-sway we are exporting to Moscow for their big Fair.

The music was picked by the U. S. Information Agency. It will be played at the Russians daily. From 10 a.m. to 10 p.m.—a time schedule a good deal like my teen-age daughter uses for playing the radio. What I mean, constantly.

I DO NOT KNOW what this will do to the Russians. But it should give them a better understanding of our problems. It is terribly hard to concentrate on world affairs when you are listening to "Tallahassee Lassie" for the tenth consecutive time.

THE MUSIC FOR the Russian Fair will come from 200,000 feet of Irish tape. It will be played on the very latest Ampex machines.

(The Ampex people will also be televising the Russians on video tape and showing it to them. So it is possible we may be able to see exactly how a tractor worker reacts to "Tan Shoes and Pink Shoe Laces.")

It is a very representative group of numbers and shows how hard our music writers have worked during the last years.

THE BULK OF the music is designed for playing over a Hi-Fi speaker system in what is described as the Hi-Fi Rest Area. That will give the Russians an idea of how it is in the U.S. "What is described as the Hi-Fi Rest Area."

My Hi-Fi Rest Area is in the patio. And the Hi-Fi pours out of the window of my child's room like a stream of water.

"Tallahassee Lassie . . . yah-de-yah . . . with a purple hand band and pink shoe laces . . . yah-de-yah."

That is the way we rest in the U. S. A. I imagine the Russians will be pretty surprised.

ANYWAY, WE WILL open up on the Russians with "Porgy and Bess." That is our 10 a.m. opening.

In the early afternoon we will give them "Cowboy Songs of the American West," sung by Roger Wagner Chorals.

That will be about 2 o'clock. We are all sitting around the Hi-Fi Rest Area. Wondering why we had that second helping of caviar. And while we rest the tape gives us:

"Eee-owww, I turned to that cowboy and I calmly said, 'I hate to do this, stranger. But I must fill you full of lead.' 'Yippee-yay-yay, yippy-yoodie.'"

DURING the late afternoon, the vodka hour, we give them a few hits from "South Pacific" (natives are just like other people only they wear less clothes? "Damn Yankees, (who do you like for the World Series?) and "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes" (so what's all this jive with the Chinese, Ivan?)

From 5:30 to 7 p.m., we go quite elegant: Symphony No. 3, Symphony No. 4—you know, the number things.

HOWEVER, UP to 10 p.m., after that, we swing the Russian cats with the Art Tatum Trio, Jack Teagarden and the Gerry Mulligan Sextet.

By this time they should be all rested. And we will close the Hi-Fi Rest Area until morning.

Now as a matter of fact, I do not find any rock'n'roll on the program. Not a bit of Elvis Presley or Sal Mineo or Johnny Mathis.

THIS MAY BE a mistake. How can the Russians really understand us until they hear a couple of solid hours of Lloyd Price singing:

"Over and over I said I love you . . ."

"Over and over . . ."

And over and over and over and over and over and — Rest in peace.

GRIN AND BEAR IT By LICHTY

"Used to be they had interesting solutions to World problems . . . Now, all they got is stock market tips! . . ."

EARL WILSON:

Stripper Sherry Britton Bares All

NEW YORK — All over the world, the strip-tease is becoming the great art form—but Miss Sherry Britton is giving it up . . . to work with her clothes on.

Sherry wants to act, to emot, to cause a tear to plop down the nose of the lady from Teaneck, N.J., in the 17th row, to bring a gulp instead of a whistle from the bald-headed old geezer with the misty bifocals in seat A-1.

"Yes, I know that all over the globe they are strip-teasing," said Miss Britton a few hours since. "In Japan, in France, where the Crazy Horse and Le Sex are the big things, and also in supposedly sedate old England."

"And in Los Angeles—and in New York . . . Why, in New York, some of the girls even work without their pasties on!"

We trust the typographer will not get pasties and panties confused. Pasties are those little paste-ons that keeps girls from being bare-bosomed. Well, it seems that some paste-ons never got pasted on here in New York.

Sherry's out in God's country (Ohio, of course), doing summer stock around Warren and Dayton.

She will be seen (clothed) in "Out of This World" with Gene Nelson in Dayton the week of July 21, and in "On the Town" with Harold Lang in Dayton the week of July 28.

"Oh, it seems wonderful," Sherry glowed one day recently at the Spindletop. "For the first time the summer theater is paying me more than my night club salary."

"My artistic desire and my financial desire finally caught up with each other."

Sometimes her strip-tease fans are perhaps a little miffed at seeing her all wrapped up in a lot of clothes, but mostly they know she wants to act, and are very sensible about it.

Sherry still looks so good without the things on, too! I mean, if she didn't . . . In fact, the noted author, Pierre

Le Mur, came down to talk to her when she was stripping at Bal Tabarin and apprised her that she shouldn't be ashamed of disrobing because he'd discovered that the great art got started in something by De Bussy. (Or did he say De Busty?)

"I am hoping my voice will be all right for the summer tour, because I caught a little cold while working at Bal Tabarin," Sherry said.

And if you have ever seen Sherry work, of course you wouldn't be surprised about her catching cold. She says she'll never strip again but we often wonder — it seems that some girls just naturally are afflicted with "clothes-trophobia."

THE MIDNIGHT EARL . . .

Louis Armstrong visited the Roundtable, played a set with the Jack Teagarden group . . . Eva Gabor phoned from Chicago that she was chilly, so Dick Brown flew there with a mink stole for her . . . Jack (Legs) Diamond's bio will be the next gangster epic filmed here . . . Aly Khan wrote the Voisin restaurant from Paris, asked for its strawberry souffle recipe . . . The Andrews Sisters'll entertain in Russia in '60.

Harry Guardino flew to Rome to film "Jovanka," took along a Stage delicatessen salami for Sophia Loren . . .

EARL'S PEARLS:

The real secret of the superstition about not having 13 at dinner is that most families have only a dozen knives and forks.

WISH I'D SAID THAT:

The practical man is one who, when he can't afford to take his girl out, marries her.

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH:

It's easy to pick out the movie star at the nudist camp: she's the one who arrives with 12 empty suitcases.

Down at Cape Canaveral there's a man whose job is to think up names for the missiles — especially those that don't take off! That's earl, brother.

MIKE CONNOLLY:

Bing for 'Recollection Creek'

HOLLYWOOD — Bing Crosby is fighting shy of movie roles that tie him up romantically with young chicks. Moviegoers just aren't buying tickets for suchlike.

And that's why Der Bingle is seriously considering producer Pan Berman's bid to shoot "Recollection Creek" at Metro, a project somewhat similar to "Our Town," told mostly by flashbacks. Comedy will have Bing telling a youngster about the rosy past of the town in which they live.

THE SHURLECK Office, Hollywood's self-censoring board, tossed the script based on D. H. Lawrence's "Sons and Lovers" back at producer Jerry Wald and told him to tone it down. A tall order — because it's about a mother who encourages her son (Tony Franciosa) in his romance with a married woman. Those three rich "Kwai" guys — Alec Guinness, Sam Spiegel and David Lean — re-teaming again with the money they made from "Bridge on the River Kwai" as star, producer and director, respectively, of United Artists' "Life of Mahatma Gandhi." Sounds like another Oscar try for Alec.

Marilyn Walker is another way of spelling Gordon (Tarzan) Scott's heartbalm over the bust-up of his marriage to Vera Miles. Gordon's been dating the starlet regularly.

FRED MACMURRAY caught Marie Wilson in "Blackouts" in Reno and gave her this in a phone call to his reporter: "Marie's clothes cling tighter to her frame than the small nations nestle up to the Marshall Plan."

Susan Hayward would like George Cukor to direct her in a script based on Anne Sullivan Macy, who came up from nowhere to achieve international fame as Helen Keller's teacher. But Cukor, currently directing Dirk Bogarde in Vienna in "The Franz Liszt Story," will first crank W. Somerset Maugham's biopic.

Incidentally, that nasty national magazine piece about Miss Hayward stems from her refusal to talk to the reporter who wrote it. When she said "phooey" to being an interviewee he said, "Okay, I'll dig it up out of the police files." And by golly if he didn't!

JERRY LEWIS' ulcers are on the rampage again. It started on the last day of shooting of "Visit to a Small Planet," his last movie for Hal Wallis. Jerry was hosting a party that evening. Shooting went overboard, until 7 p.m., the hour when the party was supposed to begin. Jerry made it from Paramount to his Pacific Palisades palazzo by 8 — but BURNED!

One of those "made-in-heaven" movie matches seems to be taking a header. The couple attended a party one night last week. The star took a powder because he'd had too much to drink and landed in the family car, parked in the party-giver's garage. The party-giver found him there, went back in the house and told the star's spouse, "Your boy went out to get some fresh air — he's passed out in the garage." Said the spouse: "Good — turn on the motor, lock the door and leave him there!"

Sign outside a Beverly Hills church: "This Place is Prayer-Conditioned!"

CHANNEL CHATTER — Paramount Pictures prexy Barney Balaban has the last laugh on all the Hollywood know-it-alls who snickered over their sleeves when he "blooped" by sinking $3,000,000 into Telemeter, Inc. Balaban's buy has turned up an easy-as-pie profit for Par. That's because of the subsidiary set up by the boss, Telemeter Magnetics, that has turned out to be a highly profitable electronics manufacturer.

Proof - of - the - pie referred to above: Balaban bounced a few shares of TM on the stock market, and they jumped practically overnight from $5.50 to $13 per share — providing plenty-PLUS to pay off his investment in Telemeter.

REVUE PRODUCTIONS, impressed by 27-year-old Rona Jaffe's success with "The Best of Everything," now being filmed at Fox, has requested her to write a series about the same girls portrayed in the movie.

In addition to the TV project, Rona is writing magazine pieces about her career girls, next up being a Coronet mag piece about "office wives" titled "The Search for a Phantom Father." Translation: Career girls who go out stepping with their bosses are cursed with Oedipus complexes.

Dancing Ann Miller has been junketing from Cairo to Berlin and all over the map, mostly for Hilton Hotel openings, ever since she married millionaire Bill Moss of Texas. But now that dancing Cyd Charisse has lined herself up several TV specs, Ann is angling for some too. Says she: "I've learned that a rolling Moss gathers no cash!"

IS BETTY GRABLE grouching because her deal to play the Tropicana in steaming-hot Las Vegas fell through? Not so's you could notice — not with her horses galloping at the Del Mar track on the cool beaches of Southern California!

A press agent phoned me with this: "Pan Berman is huddling with Vera Miles at Metro about making a picture for him after she films a Playhouse 90." I phoned Berman. Said he: "Hud-die? I guess you could call it that — I stopped to say hello to her in the studio commissary!"

ERNIE KOVACS played Scott Brady's sidesaddle sidekick, a la Wagon Train's Bob Horton-War Bond team, for Scott's ne-hoss opera outing, Shotgun Slade.

Test Water Unit Set for State

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Atomic energy will power a proposed California plant to distill fresh water from the Pacific Ocean, Secretary of the Interior Fred A. Seaton announced Tuesday.

He also said that the first of five demonstration water conversion plants will be built by the government at Freeport, Tex., to produce one million gallons of fresh water a day.

THE ANNOUNCEMENTS were contained in a speech that Seaton was to have delivered before the American Water Works Association. However, a throat infection prevented him from making the address and it was delivered for him by Allen Cywin, assistant director of the Office of Saline Water in the Department of Interior. The Freeport site, picked from over 30 cities and communities in the gulf area, will be located two miles from the coast near an existing chemical plant, he said.

SEATON ANNOUNCED that seven sites have been picked for further consideration for the California plant. They are: San Diego, Lompoc, Ventura County, Orange County, San Clemente, Monterey County and Camp Pendleton.

The Department of Interior has asked the Atomic Energy Commission to supply a low-temperature, low-pressure atomic reactor as a heat source for the proposed West Coast plant. Representatives of both groups started to work out specifications this week, he said. He did not give a starting date.

"IT IS NO IDLE dream to prophesy that one day conversion plants along our coasts, as well as in many inland areas, will be as common as the familiar stand-pipe," Seaton said.

Seaton said a total of five plants will be built by the government under a law approved by President Eisenhower in September, 1958. Three will convert sea water and two brackish water inland.

New methods of obtaining water are needed, he said, because "new fresh supplies of natural fresh water will surely become more expensive in the years ahead and the supply available will more and more tend to be less than needed."

HE PREDICTED that eventually the cost of converting sea water would be less expensive than tapping fresh water reserves. With out planning, he said, water could become the nation's No. 1 problem in "a relatively few years."

Seaton estimated "the one million gallons a day Freeport demonstration plant will convert sea water to fresh for less than $1 per thousand gallons."

AT FREEPORT, Dow Chemical Co. will sell steam to the plant, thus eliminating the need for a boiler. The city and the chemical plant will purchase all the product water of the plant, he said.

The final West Coast choice will be made by Seaton after he gets a report from a special site selection board, he said.

Later, a third conversion process will be demonstrated in a plant to be located in the northern Great Plains or arid Southwest area, he said.

Mother, Daughter Reunited After 29-Year Separation

By STAN HALL
United Press International
LOS ANGELES — (UPI) — A mother and her newly-found daughter today began filling in the blanks of the last 29 years. They met Monday for the first time since 1930 in a joyous reunion that embraced four generations. At first the reunion between Mrs. Ruby Shelton, 33, Las Vegas, Nev., and her daughter, Mildred, 32, Los Angeles, now a mother of two herself, was strained.

Then they relaxed and began telling each other what had happened.

UP UNTIL LAST September, the daughter, Mildred Debonis, thought a woman named Francine Reise was her mother. But at that time, during a quarrel, Mrs. Reise told Mildred: "No wonder you don't stick with me. You're not my daughter anyhow."

Mrs. Debonis said she began searching for her mother then. She checked county clerks in Kansas, Missouri and Arkansas where she was reared.

FINALLY SHE discovered Mrs. Dola Mae Todd, Oxnard, Calif., her aunt, though she did not know it at the time. Mrs. Todd told Mildred her mother was in Las Vegas.

Mrs. Shelton said the Reises "spirited" Mildred away in 1930. The family was caring for her 3-year-old daughter while she worked in Kansas City, Kans., Mrs. Shelton said.

"I've always had hopes that I would see you again some day," Mrs. Shelton told her daughter. "I tried my best to find you. Oh, I'm so happy."

MRS. SHELTON asked questions animatedly as her daughter showed her a scrapbook that helped fill in what happened during those years they were separated.

Mrs. Debonis' husband, Sam, a building inspector for the city, and their two children didn't quite know what to think at first about their new mother-in-law and grandmother.

"I'm just happy she found her mother," Debonis said. "She's been looking ever since she found out. She even had me go back to Kansas on my vacation to help her look."

PRESENT AT THE reunion were Mrs. Debonis' grandfather, Jim Romine, Ratcliffe, Ark., her three aunts, her mother, the bewildered husband and the confused children.

"I'm so happy to have my own mother back," cried Mrs. Debonis. "I began searching last fall. I was almost afraid to look because I was afraid I wouldn't find her."

Both Mrs. Shelton and Mrs. Debonis said they thought they would have recognized each other had they ever met.

"Yes," said Mrs. Shelton. "I think I would have recognized her. I never forgot how she looked — never for a minute."

Terms of County Airport Group To Be Specific

A change in the status of members of the county airports commission was approved by the Board of Supervisors this week at the suggestion of Supervisor William Jones.

"There should be specific terms for members of the airports commission, just as there are for other commissions," declared Supervisor Jones. Unlike other commissioners, the airport commissioners once appointed continue to "serve at the pleasure of the board."

By the board's action, present commissioners will serve until July 1, 1961, at which time terms will be staggered so that the terms of three members will expire one year and of the other two the following year.

Present members of the commission are James Simpson of Hemet, chairman; John J. Mangler of Riverside, vice chairman; Eugene Best of Riverside, Wayne Fisher of Blythe, and Dudley M. Steele of Palm Desert.

All the youngsters passed their swimming tests with flying colors, club officials reported, and the best young paddlers were handed trophies for their prowess in various swimming categories. Most of the youngsters also received first aid instruction from Riverside County Red Cross representative John Kraft. (Desert Sun Photo).

COUNCILMAN TED McKENNY ALONE ON GAMBLING STAND

City Councilman Ted McKinney is a lonely man, insofar as his opinions on legalized gambling here are concerned, that is.

Six City Council members this week wrote off McKinney's desires for "gambling on a grand scale" — ala Las Vegas — as being strictly one man's opinion, and a poor one at that.

"I THINK IT was poor judgment for a councilman to use the terms McKinney did," said Councilwoman Ruth Hardy. "We certainly don't want to compete with Las Vegas."

Mrs. Hardy apparently spoke for the rest of the council when she declared she is "100 per cent against" McKinney's suggestions that Palm Springs should be a high class mecca for gambling's carriage trade.

McKinney announced his views on gambling following council discussion last week of a revamped local gambling ordinance which said City Attorney Jerry Bunker, would plug the loopholes in state gaming laws.

THE COUNCILMAN'S suggestions were answered in the informal council luncheon meeting at the Chi Chi, wherein the council echoed Police Chief August Kettmann's pleas for a gambling ordinance that would give his men enough legal backing to clamp down on the illicit sport and its devotees.

Kettmann said that present laws, which do not cover low-ball poker, hoop-o or spectators at dice games, "are not tight enough to get proper penalties."

The chief told the council that dice games here are breeding ground for violence and that his officers are powerless to arrest anyone but the few gamblers openly holding greenbacks or dice.

MCKINNEY, WHO indicated that he favored the ordinance as it is, also drew criticism from Councilman George Beebe, who pointed out that "Cabazon is the best example" of what will happen here if local option brings in any kind of legal gaming.

"The carriage trade certainly isn't going to walk into any poker house," Beebe remarked. "Gambling here can only hurt the working people who can't afford it."

McKinney, now vacationing in Lake Tahoe, wasn't present to defend his position, but he may be on deck when the council meets the evening of July 22 to take action on a new gambling ordinance to be drafted by City Attorney Jerry Bunker.

Realtor Official Sets Visit at PD

PALM DESERT — Emerson Smith, regional representative of the National Association of Real Estate Boards, will spend Thursday, July 23, in this community consulting with local Realtors and other business leaders, Ted Smith, president of the Palm Desert Board of Realtors, announced today.

During his visit, Smith will meet with the officers of the Palm Desert group and address a meeting of the board at the Shadow Mountain Club at 8 a.m., July 23.

Prior to his services with the Realtors' association, he was an active Realtor. In 1956 he served as president of his local board and as a vice president of the Tennessee Association of Realtors. He is a graduate of the University of Tennessee and during World War II served with the Navy in the Pacific area.

MEMORIES OF PAST FOUND IN HOME

PALM DESERT — Memories of a far-away and a long-ago time when General Patton's army occupied Palm Desert, were brought to light this week by Deenie Young, publicist and area resident.

Miss Young, who recently returned from Northern California, purchased a summer home in the Pinyon Pines mountain area through Mrs. Billy Williamson of the Otto Realty in Cathedral City.

THE HOUSE, WHICH according to Miss Young, was a one-time show-place of the Pinyon-Night-ingle tract, with natural rock stairways, fireplace and fountains, had been closed for an estimated 12 to 14 years.

On reopening the domicile, the new owner discovered a redoubtable treasure in the form of many dozen cans of tomato soup, sacks of polished rice, boxes of soap, vinegar, flour and sugar. "Enough" in her own words "to feed a working army."

But Why?

IN THE CLOSETS of the house were also — and mysteriously encountered midst the general disarray of furniture and brick-a-brag — cast-off khaki shirts, shoes, caps, unused bullet shells and stray pages of correspondence.

Curious as to what kind of group of persons might have occupied the house and then like some lost civilization of the ages, left it precipitately and for reasons unknown, she questioned old-timers of the mountain area.

"YES," SHE WAS told, "the house was last used as the mount-

Fingering The Victim
OAKLAND, Calif. (UP) — Scientific detective work returned

Lula, a rare Duala chimpanzee worth $1,250, to the Oakland pet shop from which she was stolen. At the time of the theft, police took Lula's fingerprints from a drinking glass. Six weeks later, they matched them with those of a chimp found in Glendale, 400 miles away. It was Lula.

MEANWHILE, THE council asked Miss Hildebrand to invite Greyhound officials to attend next Monday's informal council luncheon meeting to hash over the problem of finding a new home for the company, which may suspend operations here if it fails to find a new home in two weeks.

The first state board of health was established in Massachusetts in 1869.

Allen Hatheway Takes Training At Fort Lewis

The training is scheduled to be completed July 31. Hatheway was graduated from Palm Springs High School in 1955 and attended the University of California at Los Angeles, where he is a member of Theta Xi fraternity. His wife, Ernestine, lives in West Los Angeles.

No Place To Hide
SAN QUENTIN, Calif. (UPI) — Prisoner Oscar Lugo, 33, got a private cell after guards found him hiding beneath the gymnasium bleachers at San Quentin Prison. Lugo explained he owed his fellow inmates so many cigarettes he couldn't pay them back.

Census Bureau Sets Survey

Special questions on consumer plans to purchase automobiles, television sets, washing machines and refrigerators will be asked in the July current population survey, Director Leonard C. Isley of the Census Bureau's regional office in Los Angeles, announced today.

Information will be collected here by Frances L. Meisch of Fontana and William H. Ritter of Riverside.

Chicanos Make Costumes

Wardrobe Valued at $70,000

By GEORGE LAINE

No troupe extant in the world of show business today is more gaily — or more authentically — costumed than Los Chicanos, the Chilean song and dance group that performs each night in the Chi Chi Starlite Room here.

The reason for this reputation is the trailer-load of costumes (estimated value: approximately $70,000) which the five Chicanos switch in and out of during the course of any given night at the Chi Chi.

LOS CHICANOS didn't spend $70,000 for their closetsful of costumes. Instead, they made 'em themselves.

The do-it-yourself fad isn't more than five years old in America, but Los Chicanos have been duplicating the costumes of their native Chile and other South American, Central American, Mexican and Cuban climes for a couple of decades.

"We couldn't afford to pay what they cost at the costume stores," Pepe Dapena, drummer and official spokesman for Los Chicanos, declared. "Besides, all of the girls are good at sewing."

IN THEIR TAMARISK Roadside, "the girls" — Mama, Lupe and Bebe Dapena — keep two sewing machines and a hundred different types of needles going virtually all day. The results are awe-inspiring.

Current project for the threesome is the fashioning of two tuxedos for Pepe and Gene Dapena and the girls are working on deadline.

"We want to wear them Saturday," Pepe said. "They'd better hurry."

MAMA STARTED sewing wardrobes for her dolls at age two and has been at home with her needlework ever since. Pepe and Lupe, the eldest of the Dapena offspring, became almost monotonous winners in the Luma's Mardi Gras held each Feb. 22 in the Peruvian capital.

"We always won either the first prize or the honorable mention for our costumes," Pepe said, seriously. "And it was because our mother made such beautiful costumes."

Lupe started making her own dresses at age 12 and Bebe got her start with a needle the same way Mama did — fashioning costumes for dolls.

"EACH SOUTH American country has about 11 different costumes for both men and women," Pepe explained. "We haven't made all of them — we'd need two trucks to carry them all — but we've got a good representation."

Many cultures have contributed to the South American costumes (Inca influences, Negro impacts and Spanish innuendoes are all evident in the Los Chicanos wardrobe), which Pepe says is even more a part of the South American "way of life" than the dances or the music. Sample: Peru's Independence Day each July 28 is more heavily celebrated than America's New Year's Day.

"Americans don't take their independence as seriously as South Americans do," Pepe opined solemnly. "Tyranny and servitude are recent in our memories. We can look to nearby nations that are still governed by dictators. Independence means a lot to the South American citizen."

NONE OF THE costumes in Los Chicanos wardrobe is "really" authentic, Pepe admits.

"Most of these costumes are made in wool in South America," he said.

"Can you imagine how hot we would get to get on the stage of the Chi Chi in wool costumes?" He wiped his brow at the thought.

"We have the costumes of velvet, silk, nylon and other materials that are not so hot."

MAMA, POISED at a sewing machine, smiled every time someone spoke. Sometimes she nodded assent but mostly she smiled.

"My mother is making flowers for our costumes," Pepe explained. "She makes thousands of them every year."

Mama smiled again and then she spoke.

"I save all the cloth left over," she gestured to a basket of odds and ends. "Nothing is ever in the garbage."

MAMA, LUPE AND Bebe routinely sew about 100 miles of fabric per month — based on a one-day average of more than three miles of seamstressing.

Chico Dapena, another brother who handles intermission piano, had been peeling potatoes in the kitchen throughout the discussion but put in an appearance at that point.

GENE DAPENA, who plays saxophone and assorted other reed instruments for Los Chicanos — currently at the Chi Chi here — gets fitted for an ornate tuxedo by the staff of the Starlite Room. Sister Lupe checks the fit for Gene and will turn it over to Mama and Bebe Dapena for final sewing. Even Brother Chico makes his own shirts. (Desert Sun Photo.)

"Chico sews, too," Pepe said, breaking into a laugh. "He has to sew or he wouldn't have any shirts."

Chico grinned broadly and exhibited a beautifully finished dress shirt with scalloping running neatly at the cuffs and collar.

"I'm getting," he sighed, resignedly. "To be a better tailor than a pianist."

THE TOUCH PART of the costume-making operation, according to Mama, Pepe, Lupe, Gene and Chico Dapena is the fixing of the minute sequins in pattern shapes for attachment to the completed, shirt, blouse, trouser or skirt.

"Genuine people have the patience," Mama said.

"So Bebe — who is Gemini — sews the sequins," added Pepe.

The five displayed examples of Bebe's handiwork while Bebe sat embarrassed in her chair. Lupe, in particular, marveled at her sister's ability.

"I could never do this," she said, indicating a finely lined sequin flower. "When we have sequins to sew, I put on the long face."

"And Bebe," interjected Mama, "puts on the sequins."

DESERT HOT SPRINGS

Mrs. Mary Karaula, owner of the Karaula Motel, flew to Europe via the Polar route for a five-week vacation Tuesday. Following a reunion with relatives in Zagreb, Czechoslovakia — the first in 20 years — Mrs. Karaula will fly to Rome. She will return via New York City and will visit friends in Pittsburgh, Penn., before coming home. During her absence her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Berkovich of Hollywood, will be in charge of the Karaula.

Two New Yorkers were among recent guests at El Reposo Motel. Max Storch of Bell Harbor, Long Island, who just ended his first stay here said he found the mineral baths very beneficial and plans to return. Mrs. Mary Peltz, who has been vacationing here for many summers, was accompanied by her sister, Mrs. Berta Rohinski, a 20th Century Fox employee from Hollywood.

Mrs. Sylvia Hempstead, who has been confined to her home for the past two weeks, is feeling much better, but is still unable to resume her usual duties.

Mr. and Mrs. Russel McCay and Mr. McCay's mother, Mrs. Charles McCay, returned on Friday from a four-week motor trip to Chicago, Ill., where they visited friends and relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. David Larsen sailed on July 8 for a three-month stay in Hawaii where they will be the house guests of their son and daughter-in-law, Lt. and Mrs. Lawrence Larsen of Honolulu.

Mrs. Sam Benton who had been confined to the Desert Hospital for the past three weeks, returned home on Thursday, and is reported to be greatly improved.

Mrs. Stone Wright, Jr., entertained members of the Monica Circle of the Methodist Church at her home on Thursday night.

Among the eight members who discussed fund-raising activities for the coming season, was Mrs. Alfred Lundberg, wife of the newly-appointed pastor of the church.

Henry Carvos recently returned from a three-week bus tour of the Pacific Northwest. While in Victoria, B.C., Carvos was a guest at the Empress Hotel and was also entertained by the R. G. Jacksons who maintain their winter home in Bubbling Wells.

Mesdames John Hemingway, Philip Fobert, Ferd Peterson and Sara Weiss motored to Laguna Beach on Tuesday for a short respite from their many civic and social activities.

Miss Loretta Starr is leaving shortly for Santa Ana where she will spend the remainder of the summer. A number of short trips to interesting places in the southland will be taken before Miss Starr returns to the desert in October.

Mrs. Jack Morey, accompanied by her mother, Mrs. J. V. Moore and two sons, Jimmy and Bruce, motored to Vallejo on Monday for a short visit with relatives. The Moreys, who are fishing enthusiasts, have been weekending recently in Ensenada, Mexico, where they have rented a home for the summer months. They will vacation all of August in Mexico. Part of the time will be spent with friends who own an avocado ranch 30 miles below Ensenada.

Mrs. Marie Schuit left recently on a three-month trip to Seattle, Wash., where she will visit with friends and relatives.

Localites now vacationing in San Francisco include Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Finch, manager of the Desert Hot Springs County Water District, who left on Saturday for a two-week stay and the Sigurd Eriksons, owners of Erikson's Restaurant, who motored up the coast on Thursday.

Cool breezes and the superb organ music of Johnny Ledwon made "Desert Hot Springs Night" at Repplier Park in Banning on Thursday evening an enjoyable event for more than 100 residents of this community. Robert Lester, president of the Desert Hot Springs Chamber of Commerce, was one of many civic and social leaders who attended the affair.

Mr. and Mrs. Ferd Pederson recently accompanied their niece, Miss Karen Rosser, of Chicago, Ill., to Phoenix, Ariz., where she will visit relatives prior to her return home. Karen, who had arrived here by plane several weeks ago, had received the trip as a high school graduation gift from her parents. During her stay here she was entertained at the Palm Springs home of Mrs. Kenneth Herman, where she met Dianne Copas, Teen Angel representative of the Angel View Crippled Children's Foundation.

Poetess Grace Parsons Harmon is the author of a poem—"Sanctuary"—which appears in the July issue of the New Mexico magazine.

Louis Catalano, who recently underwent surgery at the Montefano Hospital in Los Angeles, is recovering rapidly but is still confined to his home.

Newcomers to Desert Hot Springs are Dr. and Mrs. John Austin of Covina, and Dr. and Mrs. Henry H. Valentine of Seattle, Wash. Dr. Austin, a practicing physician, will occupy his home only on weekends for the present. Dr. Valentine, a retired dentist, will reside here permanently. Both families purchased their homes through real estate broker Betty R. Pearlman.

Vista Chino Work to Start Immediately

City officials today said they expect work to begin immediately on a new, one-mile section of Vista Chino, stretching from Palm Canyon Drive to Sunrise Way.

A $28,819 contract for the new pavement was awarded to the J&S Paving Co. at this week's City Council session.

City Manager Dan Wagner, who expects work to start "very shortly," said the paving will be financed by the city's share of state gas tax funds.

Dear Abby...

DEAR ABBY: My neighbor must not have a brain in her head. She has two darling little girls under five years old and she lets them run around outside naked. Not a stitch of clothing on! With so much in the papers lately about young boys and crazy men attacking children, I think there ought to be a law against mothers like her.

Please print this, Abby. You might save some little girl's life.

DEAR WORRIED: Your neighbor is many miles from me. But she is near enough to you so that you could speak to her about it. Perhaps the dangers you so wisely point out never occurred to her. Tell her in plain language. If she doesn't then clothe her children—notify the police.

DEAR ABBY: What do you think of a mother who won't let her 14-year-old son go swimming alone after he has passed his YMCA Shark test which is the step just before the Pre-Life Saving? I would appreciate your answer to this because it might help other boys with the same problem. Thank you.

DEAR DAVID: I think your mother doesn't believe in taking foolish chances. Even a boy who can swim like a fish is a sucker to go swimming alone. If a lone swimmer is ever seized with a cramp, he's a goner. Be wise—go with the guys!

DEAR ABBY: Our 14-year-old daughter says we are "square."

Se belongs to a club. Most of the girls are her age. They're planning a week-end slumber party at a cottage owned by one of the girls' parents. It's quite a distance out of town. The chaperone? A 70-year-old caretaker who is deaf. He lives in a cottage about a block away.

My husband and I discussed it and decided she couldn't go. She stormed around for hours accusing us of trying to keep her a baby forever, and ruining her socially. Are we wrong or not?

SQUARE PAIR
DEAR SQUARE: If there were more "square" parents like you there would be fewer kids going around in circles. Young girls should not attend slumber parties unless there is a chaperone within hearing distance who can hear.

P. S. I don't think much of parents who can't stay home one night to chaperone their children's parties.

DEAR ABBY: We have a small business in the country. Our son, who is 16, helps us. He has his friends out on week-ends and we don't mind that. Except for this one boy.

He helps himself to candy and pop. His parents are having trouble with him and they think he is safe here. He rushes around trying to help customers with his shirt tail out and a silly straw hat with flowers.

I don't mind him staying a couple of days at a time, but I don't want him here all summer. Our boy doesn't work very well when he has company.

We hate to hurt his parents' feelings, but how can we get rid of him?

TROUBLED MOTHER

DEAR TROUBLED: Tell the boy's parents that you enjoy having their son for a few days, but when he stays longer he keeps YOUR son from working. Either make it plain that you don't intend to provide their boy with a permanent stamping ground or prepare to have him all summer.

CONFIDENTIAL TO ALEX AT THE GARAGE: Just read your 33-page letter and am sending you a personal reply. If you must cry over spilt milk—next time, please condense it.
